Antonio Argibay

Meridian Design Associates Architects today announced that Founder and Managing Principal Antonio Argibay, AIA, LEED AP will speak at New York Build 2020 on March 3rd at 12:30 PM. New York Build 2020 - set for March 3rd and 4th at the Javits Center - is the largest construction and design show in New York.

In his presentation - "Designing for Media and Entertainment" - Argibay will provide background on different types of facilities, how they have evolved in the last couple of decades and their future, a topic of great interest to the design and construction communities.

"Media and entertainment facilities have had to adapt to an environment that has changed dramatically in a short period of time," said Argibay, noting the emergence of a new generation of media, ranging from personalized to on-demand. "Among the take-aways from my talk will be a better understanding of the basic components of media facilities and how to best futureproof projects to remain relevant with changing technologies." Meridian has an extensive media and entertainment portfolio, with blue-chip clients such as CBS, HBO, CNN, Clear Channel and ESPN Radio among others.
